Project WET activities are designed to satisfy the goals of educational programs by complementing existing curricula rather than displacing or adding more concepts. Project WET activities provide many opportunities to address curriculum objectives and educational standards. The Project Wet Curriculum and Activity Guide contains over 90 interdisciplinary activities designed for students in grades K-12 and are perfect for use in formal and non-formal education settings.

The Project WET Curriculum and Activity Guide was designed to:

- create a guide that represents the thoughts, needs, and concerns of a vast cross-section of grassroots educators and resource managers and is relevant and meaningful to young people.
- accommodate diverse learning styles with activities that are not only practical but also thought-provoking and engaging.
- address water from the widest possible angle with Project WET modules and existing regional water education programs bringing local issues into sharper focus.
- provide educators with a large selection of creative teaching strategies.
- promote the tenet of "water for all water users."
- generate enthusiasm for further, more in-depth, study of topics introduced through the activities.

All Project WET Curriculum and Activity Guide activities have been correlated to California Content Standards for Science, History/Social Studies and Language Arts and the California Environmental Education Initiative.

At project learning tree, we grow stewardship student by student, and we've been doing so for over 35 years. Our award-winning curriculum resources help over half a million educators teach complex environmental issues. They can be integrated into lesson plans for all grades and subject areas to help students learn how to make sound choices about the environment. Plt curriculum resources in the classrooms helps today's educators teach tomorrow's decision makers about the environment.

Our goal is to teach students how to think, not what to think about the environment. Studies show that curriculums with an outdoor learning component drastically improve overall student performance, particularly in science and math, including test scores.

State & National Standards

Our education materials are designed to meet the common components of national education reform by using the constructivist approach to learning, whole language teaching, cooperative learning, problem solving, and authentic assessments. In California, the PreK-8 Guide and the secondary modules have been correlated to state learning standards. At the national level, the curriculum has been correlated to the National Science Standards, National Social Studies Standards, Excellence in EE Guidelines, and Girl Scout (badge) program activities.

Join us for the best Wildlife Curriculum Training in the country!

Project WILD is concerned with providing information, as well as helping students to evaluate choices and to make responsible decisions. In short, the Project WILD mission is to help students learn how to think, not what to think about wildlife and the environment.

Project WILD curriculum materials adhere to those strict efforts for balance and objectivity, backed by sound educational practices and theory. It also represents the work of many within the fields of education and natural resource management from across the country.

The Project WILD K-12 Curriculum and Activity Guide, and the Project WILD Aquatic K-12 Curriculum and Activity Guide are updated regularly. We rely on input from educators, coordinators, and facilitators.
